

NO, NO, NANETTE

SUE SCENE

NANETTE

It's the only chance I'll ever get.

SUE

No, no, Nanette.

NANETTE

I feel like a prisoner here.

SUE

But why, darling? This is your home. When your folks passed on, I promised to bring you up a proper young lady and see that you marry a proper young man. And make him a nice home.

NANETTE

That's exactly it. I'll be going to go from one nice home to another. I want a little time off for good behavior.

SUE

Running off to Atlantic City unchaperoned with a lot of girls who think life is one long giggle. All of them sipping cocktails and puffing cigarettes.

NANETTE

But, all I want to do...

SUE

No, no, Nanette. Besides, what can you do in Atlantic City that you can't do right here at home?
